

Facilitator's Profile

How engaging can a virtual meeting be?

Join us to find out! Our world and our client groups are increasingly moving online, so as facilitators we must be prepared move with them. Virtual meetings can have advantages over face-to-face, but disadvantages too - not least, shorter attention spans and greater potential for distractions. How can we keep people engaged and focused when meeting online?

In this highly participatory, facilitated webinar Martin Farrell & Martin Gilbraith of IAF England & Wales and Catherine Tornbom will share some top tips and practical examples from their own experience and that of other professional facilitators, and invite you to share your some of your own experience and create your own top tips together. We will also seek to demonstrate in the webinar itself just how engaging a virtual meeting can be!

Martin Farrell CPF has been facilitating international gatherings since his first assignment with the UN in 2002. Now entering his 6th decade of engagement with civil society organisations in the UK and internationally, he is in demand worldwide as a facilitator and moderator of conferences, meetings and groups large and small. He established his own consultancy, Get2thepoint, in 1999.
